

CATHOLICS TAKE ACTION

WOULD EXCLUDE LIQUOR MEN FROM CHURCH AND SOCIETIES.

TRAFFIC IS DENOUNCED

Not in Drunkenness and Riotous Living Can Any Man Make Effective Profession of the Catholic Faith—Says the Resolution.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 12.—The members of the liquor traffic, an appeal for "salubritas" in the liquor traffic, and the exclusion of membership in Catholic societies of those engaged in the liquor traffic were striking features of the resolutions adopted by the national convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union today.

The resolutions declare that "not in drunkenness and riotous living can any man make effective profession of the Catholic faith. With indignation the union protests against the traffic of the liquor. It does not seem that it should stoop to collect the claims for ultra orthodoxy which have been so blatantly made by those who have tried to substitute the bootlegging for the standard of the cross. The day for atonement for total abstinence is over."

The union also declares its allegiance to the Catholic church and adds:

"With all our souls we welcome the sacerdotal of our faith. This is our motto."

The resolutions also say:

"Catholic periodicals that can not live without liquor advertisements should die. Let them not drag down the Catholic name in their greed. We earnestly suggest that Catholic organizations which exclude saloon keepers from membership and which forbid the use of liquor at their meetings should not tolerate the formation of clubs within their membership which despise the letter and spirit of those laws which have been made by their organization for the honor of the Catholic name."

A PRIEST THREATENED

A SERBIAN ACCUSED OF MAILING IMPROPER LETTERS. PRIEST FEARED THREATS.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 12.—Ell Malovich at 24 North James street, Kansas City, Mo., is being held at No. 2 police station in Kansas City, Mo., pending an investigation by the postal authorities of a charge of sending threatening and obscene postal cards to the Rev. John Makos, priest in charge of St. George's Greek Catholic church. Malovich is the man who was arrested August 2 for disturbing the peace of the priest. His second arrest caused considerable excitement in the Serbian colony where the church is located.

The Rev. Father Makos went to the office of Joseph Fugate, prosecuting attorney of Wyandotte county, yesterday. Through an interpreter, he told the priest speaks seven languages. "I am not one of them," he told the prosecutor that he had received many postal cards from Malovich. These cards, he said, were not only obscene, but contained threats. He said that he feared Malovich and asked that he be taken into custody.

Mr. Taggart issued a warrant for Malovich on the former charge and placed the cards in the hands of the postal authorities to be translated. Malovich will be arraigned before Judge M. N. Newhall in the south city court this morning.

Malovich was first arrested the night of August 2 on complaint of his wife, who ran to No. 2 police station and declared that her husband was about to kill the priest. When the police arrived, they found Malovich armed with a chain, standing in a threatening attitude. The following morning Judge Sims fined Malovich $50 in police court.

At present the Greek congregation, which is the only one west of Chicago, worships in a small frame church. The trouble grew out of the desire of Malovich to erect a larger building. Malovich objected to his wife, who is a member of the church, making contributions to the fund.

The Rev. Father Makos is 64 years old. He has been in charge of the church in Kansas City, Mo., almost a year. Following the arrest last night, the Serbians gathered in groups and discussed the matter in excited tones. Patrolmen in the district were instructed to arrest anyone who caused trouble.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 12.—In an effort to save the neck of Herman Healey, the condemned prisoner of seven months of the State Prison, Father Peter J. In his sermon at St. Mary's church he also expressed the hope that the same divine curse would rest upon Healey's child. Father O'Callahan declares that the effect of his sermon for excommunication to the office he is now holding, was a judgment of God against him for his part in the execution of Healey.

"MEN WILL FLY"

INVENTOR EDISON TALKS ON AEROPLANES AND BALLOONS. PROBLEM NOT SOLVED.

Orange, N. J., Aug. 12.—When Henry Ford, the great inventor, visited Thomas Edison, the inventor, in the latter's workshop yesterday the two talked of the future of aerial navigation.

"It is coming, some one is liable to solve the problem any day," said Mr. Edison.

"Don't you think, Mr. Edison, that the problem is already solved, and that all now needed are scientific and engineering talent and money?" he was asked.

"No, I don't believe that. It is not solved yet. I don't believe inventors have been on the right track. The great difficulty, of course, is the tremendous power required in the engine which at the same time must be so very light. There are lots of men working night and day on that problem, and some one will do the trick. They're liable to run across the solution any day now," he added.

He told Mr. Ford he made experiments fifteen years ago in connection with flying machines.

"How about the future of the dirigible balloon?" he was asked.

"It has no future, speaking commercially. It has no great future. Any way you take it," he was prompt reply.

"It may be utilized in some means or in war, but the heavier than air machine that can go straight against the wind—that is the thing that most men want."

"You refer to the aeroplane," some body suggested.

"No," he said. "I'll tell you what I think about this aeroplane. I have said it is sure to come. It's sure to get it yet, but it is sure to come. When the question is solved you will find that the machine that goes straight up in the air—screw itself up in the air—has answered the riddle."

The helicopter? he was asked.

"Right," he answered.
